PLANT CREPT TO SUNLIGHT

Vine Belonging to Castle Valley, Pa., Resident Creeps Out of Shadow of Window Shutter.

Though it has never been proved that plants have brains, declared the Baltimore Herald, it has been proved often that there is some power within them whereby they combat evil conditions and seek what is best for their good. A resident of Castle Valley, Pa., has a vine that showed itself last month to have, if not a brain, a substitute of equal value.

This vine, a young one, grew in a clay pot. A stick stuck in the middle of the pot and the vine curled up it. It was about two feet in height, in length, uncurled, it would have measured four feet.

Usually the vine was placed in a south window every morning when it absorbed light all day. It happened however, through an oversight, that one afternoon a shutter shaded half the window and the vine was set in the shutter's shadow. A foot away was the sunlight, warm, glittering, life-giving, but where the plant stood there was nothing but gloom.

During the four or five days it stood in shadow with the sunlight near it it did something that proved it to have a faculty akin to intelligence. It uncurled itself from its supporting stick, and, like a living thing, it crawled over the window ledge to the sun.

ARTIFICIAL SEA BREEZES.

French Scientist Discovers Process by Which One May Enjoy Salt Zephyrs at Home.

A member of the French Academy of Science is said to be enjoying sea breezes in his Paris home by diffusing through the air a small quantity of sea salt. By means of a vaporizer this liquid is distributed in the air at the rate of 120 grammes per hour. It is said that by this means the apartment becomes saturated with the scent of the sea and that the slightest draught of air creates the illusion of a wind sweeping over a sandy beach direct from the wide waters of the Atlantic ocean.

One's faith is not strengthened, however, when the narrative proceeds to relate how this ingenious scientist, while inhaling this mixture, sends himself in his armchair to sea and back, and "listens to the lapping of the waves while breathing their odor," for he holds to his ear a shell in which can be heard the murmur of the sea. Such an attitude and occupation seems more fitting for an old poet than for a professional man of science.

MEXICAN CHILDREN POLITE.

They Rival the Japanese with Regard to Manners—Elders Always Respected.

In Mexico a group of lads from 7 to 12 will meet, and each boy will decorously lift his hat, and salutations of extreme courtesy will be exchanged, and then come the boyish chatter, the run and the laughter, the same as anywhere. Boys here treat their elders with respect. An old man or woman is not the butt of the youth of Mexico; rather for the old people are reserved the shadiest seats under the trees in the park, says a writer in Rural Home. A Mexican boy or girl on entering a room walks around among the company, shaking hands with all, and on leaving the room does the same. Urbanity is taught in the public schools—all are acceptable to him. Cooking is not always necessary; a species of small fish is preferred raw, dipped into some pungent sauce. Other dainties are dried seaweed, shrimps, vermicelli, pine seeds, tiny bulbs, and all vegetables and cereals. The excesses make the Koreans martyrs of indigestion.

Korean Epileurics.

The Koreans are omnivorous. Birds of the air, beasts of the field, and fish from the sea—nothing comes amiss to his palate. Dog meat is in great request at certain seasons; pork and beef with the blood undrained from the carcass, fowls and game—birds caked with the lights, giblets, head and claws intact—fish, sun-dried and highly malodorous—all are acceptable to him. Cooking is not always necessary; a species of small fish is preferred raw, dipped into some pungent sauce. Other dainties are dried seaweed, shrimps, vermicelli, pine seeds, tiny bulbs, and all vegetables and cereals. The excesses make the Koreans martyrs of indigestion.

German War on Cuckles.

The German police have begun a systematic campaign against cuckles and quack medicines. They estimate that in ten years the population has increased 58 per cent, regular medical men, 76 per cent, and quacks, 1,567 per cent. There are more women quacks than men. Nearly 30 per cent of the men cited to appear at the police bureau have been in jail; of the women, 35 per cent. More than 100 samples of quack medicines were analyzed by the police, and over 80 per cent. were of absolutely no medicinal value.

Jake Collins' Remarkable Election Prediction

Two months or more before the recent Democratic primary, Mr. J. S. Collins predicted the election of the following candidates and the list was copied down on the spot by Mr. E. Tutt Burnham, who says: "Jake had just arrived from Ohio to take part in the Gilbert-Helm race for the nomination for Congress, early in June. At that time there were about sixty or seventy candidates for the eight county offices, and you can see that it takes a smart man to pick eight winners from such a bunch. 'Well, Jake,' said I, 'you always have an opinion and an idea worth quoting, suppose you tell me who you think the Democrats will nominate this time.' And Jake promptly called off the following, with this remark: 'Now, Tutt, I am giving you the names of those I think will win, regardless of my preferences in the various races, so here goes. County Judge, Turpin, Sheriff, Broadbent; County Attorney, Crooke; County Clerk, Cobb; Assessor, Wagers; School Superintendent, Noland; Jailor, Bob Terrill.' Mr. Burnham put that list in his pocket, and fully a week before the primary he recalled his conversation with Mr. Collins and in a crowd of friends he produced the list and the climax then and there took down the list as above printed with a view of comparing it with the final result of the campaign that had been fought out clean from start to finish. And imagine the result: Jake had picked every winner except one, Terrill coming in second to Buck Johnson for Jailor. It should be stated that no prediction was made in the Coroner's race, which was won by Higgenstaff, who outvoted the race before the above prediction was made, but it is not remarkable. Think of a man picking eight winners from a mob full of starters, with all sorts of contingencies to take into consideration. If this story is not credited ask Tutt Burnham, and you 'may enter nothing, you will return believing'."
